by which this conspiracy against his peace and his child's honor and prospects, was consummated; and discovered in them such a tissue of artifice and baseness, of depravity without example and wickedness without alloy, as would be incredible without the strong proof he is ready to furnish.

He further shews, that the youth very soon became convinced, of the various stratagems of which he had been made the dupe, and recovered from his delusion to a deep sense of shame at his own indiscretion and a profound feeling of disgust for the actors in the tragedy.

Your petitioner therefore prays (and in this his son, now only nineteen years old, humbly and earnestly joins) that Washington Price may be divorced from Susannah Price, late Susannah Webb; And your petitioners as in duty bound, will ever pray &c.

W. Price
Washington Price
December 9th 1828